

Grief Matters

On The Journey

Holidays can be difficult for those who are grieving. Do we keep the same traditions and rituals from when our loved one was with us? Do we change everything so that nothing is the same?

These are difficult decisions. Perhaps what we could do is prioritize the demands and activities of the holidays by taking inventory of the activities that we "always do." Being able to decide what is best for each of us during the holidays is essential. We may drop some activities and traditions to start new and simpler ones. One of the tasks of grieving involves making choices along the way.

It may be helpful to share your feelings with your family and friends to help them understand why you feel you need to make changes. Help them to understand that even though you are making some changes this year, it does not necessarily mean they will be set in stone. Allow yourself a holiday season to try something different. Then you can decide next year what you need to do at that time.

2020 is potentially a very difficult year for holiday gatherings and celebrations. The social isolation, worry and apprehension associated with Covid-19 adds an additional layer to our grief. It is especially difficult not having the close support of family and friends. But there are ways to stay in touch; calls, texts, and emails.

There is also support via the internet. TED Talks is a non-profit organization devoted to sharing ideas. They cover a variety of subjects including grief. Visit their website at www.ted.com and type the word "grief" in the search box and you will receive a list of talks. On-line websites on grieving may be helpful. Here are a few to try:

"Grief is not about relinquishing our relationships with the deceased, but about finding ways to stay connected."

How to Honor and Celebrate Your Loved One

- ◇ Imprint a favorite recipe onto a plate or items of your choice. A local resource is Art Unlimited in Okemos, 517.349.8278
- ◇ Make an ornament or other art form with a special object of your loved one. (Keys, Playing Cards, Bicycle Parts) A local resource is Absolute Gallery in Old Town Lansing, 517.482.8845.
- ◇ Create a Shadow Box to hold various favorite items like clothing, objects, certificates etc. Most framing establishments like Michaels or Hobby Lobby are able to help with this.
- ◇ Favorite clothing and other items can be remade into quilts, teddy bears, pillows and table toppers. A local resource is Custom Quilts & Sewing in Haslett, 517.339.7581.
- ◇ Embroidery, stencil, or write a meaningful anecdote or statement from your loved one onto a pillow case and frame it as a picture. Search online for helpful instructions or check with The Party Shoppe in Williamston, 517.325.3097.
- ◇ Turn a signature (for example "love mom" from a card) or a thumbprint into a necklace. Most jewelry stores can accommodate this, try Sweet Custom Jewelry in Old Town, 517.267.7600.
- ◇ Create a memory garden or fairy garden. Decorate rocks, stencil a poem on a rock and/or plant trees in their honor. Local nurseries and greenhouses can help with planting ideas. A few places are Van Atta's, Lansing Gardens, Cottage Gardens, or Horrocks.

"And the world cannot be discovered by a journey of miles, no matter how long, but only by a spiritual journey, a journey of one inch, very arduous and humbling and joyful, by which we arrive at the ground at our feet, and learn to be at home."

Getting Through the Holidays after the Loss of a Loved One

The first Thanksgiving, the first Christmas, the first birthday and all other firsts without your loved one may be very difficult. There is no way to avoid the memories and the accompanying grief that these times call up.

For most of us holidays are full of traditions: "We always went to Mom's on Thanksgiving." "Harry always decorated the tree and lit it on Christmas Eve." "We always went to Coral Gables on our anniversary because she loved their bread pudding." These memories will forever be sacred AND painful. They are signs that our relationship with our deceased loved one was meaningful and real. They are signs that our love does not end when a life ends.

Holidays, like losses, cannot be avoided. Sometimes our grief feels unbearable and we may try to escape the pain. The key is to try to find a balance.

What is helpful for one may not be so for another. You may want to experiment with different ways to cope with the holidays; different ways to face the empty chair, allowing your grief to be a part of the occasion. Some people want to be alone. Some want to be with someone they feel close to. You may want to start a new ritual to acknowledge your loss and celebrate your love that lives on. Something as simple as lighting a candle and saying: "on this day I remember _____ and give thanks for the time we had together."

Whatever choices you make; remember to be kind to yourself. Respect your needs. You may want to be with others or you may want to be alone. Take note of what feels right for you even if others make suggestions that they think you should follow.

Honor where you are. This may be the year that you don't celebrate the holidays even though it seems everyone else is in a joyful mood. This may be the year you help serve Christmas dinner at a homeless shelter, or just stay home and write a letter to your loved one who is no longer with you.

Even though grief groups are not meeting at this time please know we can provide support by phone. You are welcome to call with any questions or concerns or if you need someone to talk to about what you are experiencing.

The Legend of the Lotus

Out of the depths and shadows from the bottom of a pond, the lotus emerges, untouched and unstained. Representing the purity of the mind and soul, the lotus flower is a powerful symbol of peace, hope, transcendence and rebirth. The lotus reminds us to strive through difficulties and that beauty and light can rise from the murky darkness.
